Grand Theft Auto 5

Gta 5 is the best video game ever, although other people might complain about the violence and language. You can drive cars, customize cars and even sell your car for some cash. It is a game which you can pull heists, rob stores, and even change characters. The characters that I have unlocked are Michael, who is a rich robber, Franklin, who is a rich gangster, and Trevor who is a poor hillbilly.

Franklin and Trevor pull heists together. I have a customized Lamborghini. It has custom and bulletproof tires with orange rims and an armor upgrade up to 60%, but I don't really like to drive it that much because it is a nice car. Franklin lives in an awesome mansion with a rottweiler named chop, but if you don't train him with the ifruit app he will go to the bathroom in your yard. Franklin has 3 customized cars which are the Lambo, a honda civic 2012, and an orange Porsche. Michael also lives in a mansion, but he has no family because they left him. Michael and Trevor used to pull big heists back in the day, but something went wrong and they both thought each other were dead. When you play online you can create your own character, but you have to be signed in to Xbox Live. Then there is Trevor, who doesn't know how to control himself, because he is not responsible. You can skydive and even fly a helicopter.

There are stores to get your character into shape like Suburban, Ammunition, and even the barber shop. There are tons of ways to get money. You can get money by racing other players. You have to be careful playing online because other players might not be friendly. They might destroy your car or kill you.

Well now you know about Gta 5 and what you can do and what it is about. Ask your parents before playing this game because they might not want you playing games like this. You can normally buy this game at Gamestop.
